SWEET BRIAR SEVERES SOCIAL TIES WITH W. & L.

Decision Recently Made—Taken
Effect Immediately And Lasts Indefinitely

RESULT OF BROKEN RULES

Dean Dutton Reads Notice at Special
Student Meeting On Nov. 22

As the result of a decision which was recently reached by President Glass, Dean Dutton, and Miss Jessie Fraser, assistant to the dean, Sweet Briar has severed, for an indefinite length of time, all social connections with Washington and Lee University, at Lexington, Virginia.

At a specially called meeting of the student body Friday noon, November 22, Dean Dutton read the following notice: "It is a matter of much regret to the administration at Sweet Briar that the student social relations between Washington and Lee University and Sweet Briar have not been so happy this fall as they ought to be. As many of you know, Washington and Lee boys have not only been drinking too much in Lexington but have also brought liquor to our campus. Some of our own students have failed to regard the regulations which condition their going to Lexington. Therefore, in conference together, President Glass, Miss Fraser, and I, have decided to suspend student social relations between Sweet Briar and Washington and Lee until we have adequate assurance of the maintenance in the future of a satisfactory and happy situation."

"This suspension applies both to the acceptance of invitations given by Washington and Lee men to Sweet Briar students and to the giving of invitations by Sweet Briar girls to Washington and Lee men and takes effect at once, including the result of all dates with Washington and Lee men for this week-end and the withdrawal of any acceptance already promised to invitations from them.

Students Invited to Six "At Homes"

Many of the faculty members are anxious to meet the students socially as well as academically, and for that reason have set aside certain afternoons or evenings during the week when they will be at home to receive them.

All students and members of the community are cordially invited to these gatherings. The hosts hope in this way to become better acquainted with many more of the girls than would be otherwise possible.

The following is a list of some of the "At homes":

Monday: the Walkers, from 4 to 6.
Tuesday: Miss Glass, from 4 to 6.
Wednesday: Mr. Worthington, from 4 to 6.
Thursday: Miss Rogers, Dr. Crawford and Dr. Raymond, from 4 to 6.
Sunday: Miss Benedict, from 7 to 9 p. m. Miss Reynolds, from 7 to 9 p. m.

Barry's "You and I" Staged By New Dramatists Saturday

"You and I", a comedy by Philip Barry, will be presented by the new members of "Paint and Patches" on Saturday, November 30, at 8:15 P. M. in the chapel. Each year the newly initiated dramatists make their stage debut in a play which gives them an opportunity to show the Sweet Briar community why the dramatic club selected them to be among their active number.

The cast:
Maitland White Sarah Phillips
Nancy White Martha Rose
Roderick White Jane Miller
Veronica Duane Emmy Lou Haller
Geoffrey Nichols Louise Nelson
G. T. Warren Anna Brown
Ellis Betty Boone
Geraldine Mallory is in charge of the scenery.

TAU PHI WILL HOLD OPEN FORUM DECEMBER 6

Discussion Is To Familiarize The Audience With Works Of
Bertrand Russell

As an introduction to the talk by Bertrand Russell, who is coming to Sweet Briar on Friday, December 6, Tau Phi is holding an open forum on Thursday, December 5, at 8 o'clock, in Ball Room. The whole student body is most cordially invited to attend.

In order to expand the audience's knowledge of Mr. Russell's numerous works, there will be brief talks on three of his books by members of Tau Phi.

A collection of essays in "Our Changing Morality" will be reviewed by Kathryn Blake; "Why men Fight," by Alice Blake; "Religious Essays," by Elizabeth Stevenson; and "Marriage and Morals," by Marjorie Sturges.

These talks will be as condensed as possible, in order to allow time for personal discussion on the subjects by those present.

This will be a peroration to the appearance of Mr. Russell on the following evening. The subject of his talk has not yet been decided.

During these times when mental emancipation is so popular at Sweet Briar, the thought of free speech on subjects that are uppermost in modern minds will be welcomed.

Bid To Spend Christmas At Barbison Club Sent Here

Any students who may be interested in spending the Christmas holidays in New York City are advised of the opportunity to make the Barbison Club their headquarters.

Mrs. Evert Banker Smiles, a North Carolinian and a cousin of the late Emily Watts McVea, a former president of Sweet Briar, will be glad to chaperone any Sweet Briar girls who desire it, and according to Miss Dutton they may be assured of the same care and attention that they would have in their own homes.

For further information regarding the matter, students may confer with Dean Dutton or communicate with Mrs. Smiles direct. Her address is—The Barbison, 140 East 63 Street, New York City.

RUSSELL'S SPEECH TOPIC SUBJECT OF KEEN DISPUTE

"Civilization and the Machine"
Versus "The British Labor Party"

ARGUMENTS ON BOTH SIDES

Popular Vote To Be Held On December
2 Will Definitely Decide
Question

Bertrand Russell, well-known English philosopher who is coming to Sweet Briar to lecture on Friday, December 6, will speak on one of two topics, "The British Labor Party" or "Civilization and the Machine."

The former subject was chosen by the Committee on Lectures and Music, but as a result of some agitation aroused by several who preferred the latter topic, it was decided that a vote should be taken in order to determine the general preference of those who will hear him.

This vote will be taken on Monday, December 2, and it is asked that all members of the community express their opinions by casting ballots in favor of one subject or the other some time between 10 and 1:30 on Monday in Gray parlor.

Dr. Joseph K. Folsom, professor of Economics and Sociology, believes that "Civilization and the Machine" is a subject of more general interest to the majority and is one which gives Mr. Russell an opportunity to express his own particular philosophy.

Miss Gladys Dickson, assistant professor in Economics and Sociology, feels that since there have been several spe-

"NEWS" RANKS FOURTH IN STATE COLLEGE CONTEST

The Sweet Briar News was awarded fourth place in the class A division at the annual meeting of the Virginia Intercollegiate Press Association which was held at Radford State Teacher's College on Friday, November 22, and at Virginia Polytechnic Institute on Saturday, November 23.

Judgments for the awards were made on a comparative basis. Publications of like size and issued at colleges of similar enrollment, competed against each other. There were contests for newspapers, year books and magazines and entries from any college or junior college in the State were eligible. The Briar Patch was not entered this year.

In addition to the contests, open forums were held for editorial and business staff members and the Sweet Briar representatives to the convention, Merry Curtis and Kathryn Blake, brought back with them many constructive ideas for improving both the literary and business departments of Sweet Briar publications.

Merry and Kathryn said that the attendance this year was more than twice that of last when the conference was held at the University of Richmond. W. C. Boundstone of William and Mary College was elected to succeed J. T. L. Dickinson.

BERTRAND RUSSELL TO LECTURE HERE DEC. 6

English Philosopher And Author
Visits Sweet Briar For
First Time

Bertrand Russell, celebrated English philosopher, will come to Sweet Briar to lecture Friday, December 6. Mr. Russell needs no introduction to the audiences of America.

Before the war he was known as one of the foremost of logicians and heir to an earldom. Since the war he has become known throughout the world as one of the foremost of liberals and the most clear thinking of England's philosophers.

In the words of "The Independent": "A certain nobility of tone characterizes Mr. Bertrand Russell. A certain nobility of feeling is the source of the nobility of tone."

That he has an extraordinary gift for subtle thought has been shown in his researches in the philosophy of mathematics. Add to these qualities a remarkable command of effective expression, and we have a combination difficult to match.

Mr. Russell is an experienced lecturer. He has lectured extensively at Cambridge and Harvard, where he was special professor of philosophy. On his former visits to America every available day of his time was sought after for debates and lectures.

Glee Club To Present Christmas Program Dec. 13

An unusual program is being arranged by the Glee Club for its annual Christmas event, which is to take place on Friday, December 13.

Miss Beatrice Walmsworth, director of the organization, says that full details of the program will be announced at a later date.

CHOSEN AT SECTIONAL MEET

Varsity Loses To All-Philadelphia And
Mt. Washington Eleven In Tournament Matches

The selection of Polly Swift, '31, and Mary Douglas Lyon, '30, as members of the Southeast second hockey team and Owen Olcott, '30, Carolyn Martindale, '30, and Agnes Sprunt, '30, as substitutes for the same team, and the loss of two games in the Southeast sectional hockey tournament were the net results of the visit which the varsity hockey team made to Philadelphia from Friday, November 22, to Sunday, November 24.

The tournament, which was held for the purpose of selecting the first and second Southeast teams, was held at the Philadelphia Cricket Club, at St. Martin's, Pennsylvania. Sweet Briar, Bryn Mawr, and Hood were the only colleges represented; the other four competing teams being professional hockey clubs. National hockey umpires were also rated at this time. Miss Harriet Rogers, head of the department of Physical Education here, is a member of the committee on selection and rating of umpires.

In the first game which Sweet Briar played, the All-Philadelphia team, winners of the tourney which unites all-American stars among its forces, defeated the local eleven by the score of 10-1.

For the first 20 minutes of play, Sweet Briar managed to hold the opponents scoreless. However, once the Philadelphia players found a way of breaking through Sweet Briar's defense, goals were scored in rapid succession, and the half ended with Sweet Briar trailing, 6-0.

Snell's "Moonlight" Voted Most Popular

"Moonlight," by Henry B. Snell, was chosen as the most popular painting from among those which were sent from the Grand Central Art Galleries in New York, and which were on exhibition in 32 Academies until Thursday, November 21. The decision was made by popular vote.

"Moonlight" is a waterfront scene in tones of gray. The moon and the lights of the village twinkling across the water give it brightness.

In the foreground is an old dock with one lone man on it, while at the right, the bow of a ship pierces the darkness.

It is a beautiful scene and several people have been heard to say, "It is a picture with which one could always live."

Henry B. Snell, the artist who made this painting, is very famous, and has several gold medals and awards to his credit. His ability has been recognized abroad as well as in this country.

LET THE SENIORS OUT FIRST

At the beginning of the year the president of the Senior class asked that the rest of the student body be mindful of a Senior tradition which states that the other classes shall stand back in chapel until the Seniors have left.

For the first few weeks after this plea was made, the Seniors walked out of chapel unopposed by the other students, but now again the Sophomores and Juniors especially seem to have forgotten that they are not Seniors and they are always the first to leave chapel.

The Seniors have not complained as yet, but we feel that we should remind the forgetful students again of the plea and see to it that this one small favor be accorded those who are Seniors, since it is practically the only one which the student body can give. Don't forget to let the Seniors out first!

LET DATES STAY AFTER 10:30 SATURDAYS

Two readers of The News have informed us through the Readers' Say-so column, that there are two different opinions regarding the Saturday night gym dances.

One of the statements was something to the effect that dates should not be made to leave at 10:30 on Saturday nights and the other stated that the gym dances were worse than mediocre and the reader saw no reason for anyone wanting to stay after 10:30.

We feel too that 10:30 is a very early hour to order all dates to have dates after that time.

On the other hand we think the gym dances do not give anyone a very good impression of Sweet Briar, but we see no other way out of a difficult situation. The dates are not interested in the appearance of the gym anyway, let us venture to say.

If there were no dances in the gym on Saturday nights, there would be no way of entertaining visitors, and until a new gym is built, we shall have to be satisfied with the present situation.

Meanwhile, we advocate letting girls have dates after 10:30 on Saturday nights.

GRADUATING BOXWOODS

A recent visitor to Sweet Briar gardens, a Virginian, and more than casually interested in boxwood as many Virginians are, suggested to her companion that the presentation of a slip of Sweet Briar boxwood to each graduate would be a charming gesture. The idea appears so delightful and so typical of those things that seem to belong wholly and solely to Sweet Briar that it seems worthy of consideration and not just something to cast aside as a mere trifle.

According to an old Virginia recipe, a clipping from a box bush will take root "if you just stick it in the ground." When the boxwoods are clipped here semi-annually, it seems that Dr. Edwards does "stick some of them in the ground." If enough of them were so planted each time to allow each member of the senior class to get a growing one, what senior could resist transplanting the "outward and visible sign" as well as the "inward and spiritual grace" of Sweet Briar to her home? And then, too, would not Sweet Briar be proud to endow her daughters with her box as well as with the rest of the heritage which we will all cherish as a life-long possession?

Martha McElroom (and others, no doubt) will be interested in the newest version of the Washington and Lee Spring. Let it suffice to say that the last line is "The woman always says" and for further enlightenment, ask practically anyone of the First-Floor-Corridor. It's really an epic.

Our representative at the press convention at Blacksburg last week-end, we regret to say, met a boy from Sh-W and L, who (in spite of the fact he posed as a representative) we knew could not have been up to any good; will those girls please help us to uphold the faculty rulings by reporting themselves!

What was this convention, anyway? Both girls returned with a lean, hungry look in their eyes, and Kathryn, besides, was bruised from top to toe.

You must hand it to Mary Lot, she always gets right down to the point! Consider, for example, the night she called up her home in Portsmouth for the sole purpose of inquiring about her mother's health, and after discussing fully the relative merits of the weather here and the weather there, hung up—having overlooked completely her mother's sickness.

After trying to play bridge for two hours in a fit of fortune-telling at Mrs. Williams, we are naturally curious to know whether JIM or BILL will give Night-ly the silver Christmas, present, and if it will be BOB or FRANK who will have the good fortune to see Pruitt more during vacation, etc. etc. Do let us know, girls—you, too, Williams and Hayes.

What is this game they play in the refectory at breakfast time? Issa Hunt, arriving late for the morning meal, was informed that she could have neither fruit nor coffee, as it could hardly have been thirty seconds afterwards that she sat surrounded by oranges, coffee, tea, and milk. (No one offended Betty, no one offended!)

It has been said that a man's profession, more or less, permeates his entire life, and it must be true, for it certainly sounded natural enough when Mr. Dew began his address in convocation Thursday with the remark, "You have to pay for everything you get in this world." You ought to know, Mr. Dew.

RUSSELL'S SPEECH TOPIC SUBJECT OF KEEN DISPUTE

ers at Sweet Briar in the last few years who have discussed the British Labor Party, this would be an excellent time for consideration of a subject which is not only informative but is also stimulating to thought.

"Mr. Russell is primarily a philosopher," Miss Dickson says, "and would therefore have more to say on 'Civilization and the Machine' than on the 'British Labor Party.' In addition, the newspapers are full of the latter subject while material on the former is not quite so close at hand."

"A visiting lecturer is not a book; he is a traveler and messenger who brings what books cannot, a personal intimacy with other ways of life," says J. D. Denison, an associate professor of English. The problem suggested by "Civilization and the Machine" is a time-worn both here and in England, and Mr. Russell's books which discuss it excellently, are obtainable both in English and here.

"The 'British Labor Party', however, sounds, not like a problem but like a piece of news—news of great change in England brought to us by one of England's greatest men—news of a movement the future of which may well hold the solution of old problems, among them 'Civilization and the Machine'."

We can best learn Mr. Russell's social philosophy through his books, and when he comes, may we not ask him to interpret in the light of that philosophy the most important movement of his country and of our time?

A second argument in support of the same subject is presented by Dr. Dora Nell Raymond, professor of history, who says:

"A natural interest in England has been stimulated by Ramsey MacDonald's recent visit to the United States and by the project of the Five Power Naval Conference on which the influence of his party will be strongly exercised next January in London."

Dr. Raymond believes that Bertrand Russell is better able to speak on the Labor Party than any other lecturer that will be available this season.

"He has seen active political service in the struggle against the Protectionist policy Chamberlain wished to inaugurate and has twice been a Labor candidate for Parliament. He is intimately acquainted with many of the party's leaders."

"As a politician, Bertrand Russell will be able to describe the policy of his party and as a philosopher, to interpret its ideals. His critical faculty is highly developed and in his search for truth he will not spare either condemnation of the popular or praise of the unpopular."

"I have heard him lecture before a college audience and I know that he can

The readers are asked to make use of the column because the NEWS welcomes all criticisms and suggestions.

Dear Editor:

May I express an opinion on the subject of Bertrand Russell's lecture? I understand that the choice between the "British Labor Party" and "Civilization and the Machine" is to be given to the student body.

As far as I can see, the choice should be overwhelmingly in favor of the latter. After all, we heard Mark Starr on the British labor party; we are told of it in our history courses; the newspapers are full of it; and Laidlaw's "History of Socialist Thought" or any other text book will give us an excellent resume of its history, policies, and leaders. But it is very rarely that we have the opportunity of hearing one of the greatest modern philosophers lecture on a subject of such world-wide interest as "Civilization and the Machine."

The latter is a subject which would open discussion and stimulate thought far more than would the former and it is very generally admitted that despite the popularity of bull sessions, Sweet Briar's range of subjects for general debate is decidedly narrow. Let us hear Bertrand Russell in his own field, and hope that he will give the student body something to discuss besides W. and L.

A Reader

Dear Editor:

We would like to know just why Sophomores, when they have dates, think they have a right to usurp the tables of upperclassmen, just because their own table doesn't happen to be set up.

Furthermore, we think that any girls with dates should have the common courtesy of waiting for vacant places if their own table is not set up.

Sophomores, just take this timely hint and try taking the trouble of asking upperclassmen if the tables for the future will have their table when you have a guest and your own table is not made up.

A, B, and C.

be trusted to explain political theories in a way that is not only clear, but highly entertaining."

With these arguments presented for both sides, it is hoped that those who vote will do so only after consideration of those opinions which may help them in formulating their own decisions.

With the Alumnae

Kay Norris, '26, arrived November 21 to spend two days on campus.

Announcement has been made of the engagement of Elizabeth Plummer Crane, '26, to Mr. N. J. to Mr. Matthew Dean Hall, Mr. Hall attended the University of Virginia, and now resides in White Chimneys, Cranford.

Lucy Marion Reaves, '25, is society reporter on the Arkansas Gazette in Little Rock, and teaches English in the high school there.

Louisa Newkirk, '23, of Philadelphia, is to be married on Thursday, December 12, to Mr. William Hill Steele.

Allice Mitchell Scott, '20, is studying music and dramatics this year at the School of Fine Arts in Philadelphia.

Margaret Mahoney, '28, is head of the Mental Testing Department at Macy's in New York.

Rosanne Gilmore, '19, has moved from her home in Columbus to Cleveland, where she is in the insurance business.

The engagement of Ruth Allen '26 to Burnett Landreth Bear of Cleveland, O., has recently been announced. Miss Bear graduated from Cornell in the class of '21.

Elizabeth Thomson, '20 of Chicago, Illinois, is engaged to James A. Griffin, Jr., of Tampa, Florida, according to an announcement which was recently made by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Thomson. Miss Thomson is a member of the Board of Overseers of the college.

JONES, WHITTAKER HURT IN TOURNAMENT GAMES

16 Members Of Varsity Squad Make Trip To Philadelphia; All Have Chance To Play

Polly Swift, playing left inside, scored Sweet Briar's lone goal in the second half, but the Philadelphia backs only let Sweet Briar pass them two or three times in this half.

Just before the game, Patsy Jones, '30, was hit about the eye by a ball in a practice play and had to have two stitches taken to close the cut. She was able to play when she returned from the hospital later.

Dougie Lyon is warmly praised by the Philadelphia newspaper accounts of the game for her splendid work in guarding goal.

The second game in which Sweet Briar took part was played on Sunday, November 24. This time the Mt. Washington Club of Baltimore triumphed by one goal, the final score being 4-3.

During the game, Perry Whittaker, '31, playing right wing, was hit on the head by a ball and had to leave the game. Huldah Williams, '29, substituted for her.

Polly scored the first Sweet Briar goal in the game, but the half ended with the Baltimore team in the lead, 3-1. In the second half, Mona Stone, '30, and Gwen Olcott, '30, captain of the team, both scored goals.

Extreme cold, snow, and rain marred the entire week-end and made playing conditions not of the best.

The line-up was as follows:

All-Phil.	Position	Sweet Briar
S. Cross	R.W.	P. Whittaker
B. Cadbury	R.I.	B. Boone
V. Vandertrek	L.F.	M. Stone
K. H. H.	L.I.	P. Swift
K. Kendig	L.W.	G. Olcott
K. McLean	R.H.	G. Martindale
A. Townsend	C.H.	L. Shirley
B. Streiberg	L.W.	A. Blake
L. Howe	R.P.	M. Jackson
A. Page	L.W.	A. Sprout
F. Elliott	G.K.	M. D. Lyon

The substitutions for Sweet Briar were as follows: Huldah Williams for Whittaker; Polly Swift for Betty Boone; Beth Kerr for Polly Swift; Patsy Jones for Polly Swift; Josephine Rucker for Lucy Shirley; Gertrude Lewis for Agnes Sprout; L. Shirley for M. Jackson.

The same line-up was used in the Mt. Washington game, with the following substitutions: Huldah Williams for Whittaker; Patsy Jones for Boone; Jo Rucker for Shirley; Shirley for Boone.

These games marked the end of the 1929 hockey season for Sweet Briar.

BITS OF NEWS FROM THE TOURNAMENT

The five Sweet Briar girls who were honored by being made members of the Southeast second team are supposed to go to Boston this week-end to take part in the National Hockey tourney, but they are unable to attend.

Bryn Mawr players were bright red tunics and red bandanas and looked like "Aunt Jemimas", according to one Philadelphia journal.

The correspondent for the Philadelphia Inquirer, who covered the games in the tourney, took great delight in writing about Sweet Briar as the "Southern lassies" or "the Sweet Briar maidens." She also praised them for their brave endurance of the cold.

Merced Jackson's hockey stick could not stand the strain of tournament play and broke in the midst of one of the matches.

The Sweet Briar girls who did not visit with friends or relatives over the week-end in Philadelphia or New York, were the guests of members of the All-Philadelphia teams.

All 16 players who made the trip entered the games at some time or other.

Dougie Lyon was interviewed at some length and received more publicity than any other member of the team. Dougie lives near Philadelphia, and her athletic career in high school was reviewed by one of the papers.

The fact that Sweet Briar has a special training table and training rules for the members of its varsity hockey squad aroused a good deal of comment from among the other participants in the matches.

Just before the game on Friday, the team received a telegram from the William and Mary hockey team, whom they had defeated earlier in the season, wishing them luck in the tournament.

Numerous parents and friends of the Sweet Briar players were present at both games to cheer them on. Margaret Reinhold, '26, Marion Jaynes, '28, Gertrude Prior, '29, Lisa Guigon, '29, Hallet Gubelman, '29, and Charlotte Whitney, '29, were among the members of the alumnae who were also present.

SOCIAL TIES WITH W. & L.

"We realize that this ruling will affect many students of both institutions upon whom there is no criticism and we regret that this cannot be avoided."

In reply to inquiries in regard to the matter, the dean said that the notice speaks for itself and she earnestly hopes that both student groups will shortly find means of so clearing the situation that there will be no need of continuing this suspension. She looks with confidence for the co-operation of the students in upholding Sweet Briar ideals and social standards, in improving their value and importance upon any individuals who may have forgotten them, and in guarding these ideals even more carefully than heretofore.

Sophs Tie Junior-Fresh Lacrosse Players, 4-4

An inter-class lacrosse game played Thursday, November 21, between the Sophomore and the Junior-Freshman team ended with the score 4-4.

At the end of the first half the Junior-Freshman team was leading 4-1. Cole had scored 3 goals and H. Wells one goal for the team. The one Sophomore goal was made by M. Miller.

The Sophomores kept their opponents from scoring in the second half, and M. Miller scored two more goals and H. Kerrson for that total, making the score a tie. On Tuesday, Dec. 12, the Sophomores defeated the Juniors with the score 8-1.

"Hold That Pose; Head Up; Smile!"

Another epoch of the year has passed! The photographer for the Briar Patch has departed and students are once more struggling with their common-place existence.

Randolph parlor has resumed its normal appearance, while the girls have returned to a more or less uniform garb and natural smile.

Who didn't see a fair damsel decked out in black velvet and boasting of a new wavey, fluttering around in silk socks and mud-caked campus models? Who didn't see the senior, struggling vainly with her "mortal board" in front of the mirror in Randolph parlor?

Ah! the poor mirror! Thoroughly hangs a tale of woe! For three whole days that poor defenseless piece of glass had faces made at it!

For three whole days it heard the groans of those who wished their hair was straight and the walls of those who longed for curls. For three whole days it was subject to everything from "I never take a good picture" to "I'm so nervous!"

And then there was the matter of group pictures! They are always interesting things, especially in family albums and year books.

The sanctity of the Golden Stairs was somewhat desecrated, but everyone agreed it was for art's sake—and they are particularly well adapted for having some one else's knees jammed in one's neck.

Then, too, there are several points of interest where one can find one's gals. Watching the photographer dive under that black cloth is always somewhat disconcerting to a lady-like smile, and to look at him when he says "now hold that," is to invite ruin.

So that as it may—it is all over. All that can be done now is to wait and hope that in the Briar Patch everyone won't look like confirmed pessimists or cheerful idiots.

Three Clubs Report Activities

Classical Club

At the meeting of the Classical Club held in Reid Parlor on Monday, November 18, a Socratic dialogue entitled "Should Adults Play Golf?" was presented by Helen Goodwin and Helen Nightingale, the former represented Christopher Morley and the latter Chick Evans.

Dr. Florence Robinson, Professor of Latin and Greek, talked on "Some Classical Scholars I Have Known." She also told the club of the acquisition of the casts of Greek sculpture, some of which already appear in Room 9 Fletcher and in the exhibition hall of the library. Others will be on exhibition later.

Dr. Robinson was one of the Carnegie students in Fine Arts at the summer session of Harvard University last summer. This group consisted of ten men and ten women who are teaching some phase of art in various colleges of the United States.

The grant of the Carnegie Corporation under which these students studied, covered not only the full expenses for the summer course but also provided $175 for each student to be used to purchase equipment for his or her department. Dr. Robinson's purchases consisted chiefly of lantern slides and the casts of Greek sculpture.

Oriental Club

The regular monthly meeting of the Oriental Club was held in Fergus Reid parlor Wednesday evening, November 13. After a business meeting, reports were given on China.

Mary Macdonald gave a brief survey of the history of the country, which was followed by a report on its geography given by Mary Walker, and a talk on Chinese customs by Gladys Wester.

Following these reports, Martha Lee, president of the club, told of some of her experiences during the years she lived in China.

Int. Relations

Tuesday, November 19, the International Relations Club held its third meeting of the year in Fergus Reid parlor.
